SCALP ITCHED AND BURNED

Scarcely Any Hair on Head. Terrible Itching. Also Bothered With Pimples and Blackheads on Face. Cuticura Soap and Ointment Cured Both Troubles.

Greenwood, Ind.—"First my hair began to fall, then my scalp itched and burned when I became warm. I had pimples on my scalp; my hair was falling out gradually until I had scarcely any hair on my head. I couldn't keep the dandruff off at all. My hair was dry and lifeless and I lost rest at night from the terrible itching sensation. I would pull my hair off, and scratch my head any place I happened to be.

"For several years I was bothered with pimples on my face. Some of them were hard red spots, some were full of matter, and many blackheads. I was always picking at them and caused much trouble. These months' use of Cuticura Soap and Ointment has made my face as smooth and clean as can be." (Signed) C. M. Hamilton, Sept. 24, 1912.

Cuticura Soap (25c.) and Cuticura Ointment (50c.) are sold by druggists and dealers everywhere. Liberal sample of each mailed free, with 32-p. Skin Book. Address: Postoffice "Cuticura," Dept. T, Boston.

Two years ago he announced that he would quit riding and go in for training but he got rid of the few pounds of fat that worried him and went back to the saddle again.

In his time he had ridden for some of the biggest racing men in the game, and about five years ago wore the colors and rode the horses of Emperor William of Germany, whose entries are under the name of Count Lein-dorf.

SHOULD PUT RETURN ADDRESS ON LETTERS

Postmaster Brown Declares Time, Work and Annoyance Could Be Saved by It.

"The thing that the public needs education in most in connection with the postal business is that a return address should be placed upon the mail which is sent," said Postmaster J. T. Brown in speaking of the little matters with which the department has to contend.

"A strict observance of that procedure would save an incalculable amount of time, labor and annoyance. Every few days we are forced to send big packages of unclaimed letters to the dead letter office at Washington because the senders had not taken the precaution to place their return address in the corner of the envelope. If the mail is important, it meets the same fate and it is difficult to estimate how many misunderstandings arise between people because a letter did not reach its destination and because the sender did not know that his letter was not called for.

"We had a little incident here just the other day. A well known farmer of this county sent a money order to one C. E. Sharp in payment for services rendered. The letter in which the order was enclosed was not called for by Sharp. It was held the required two weeks and all efforts to locate the man failing, the letter was forwarded to the dead letter office. That was last July. We have just received the money order back at this office with instructions to return it to the sender. Doubtless Mr. Sharp needed that money and was a good deal piqued at the farmer for his supposed delinquency. These incidents happen daily by the thousands and all could be avoided by getting the 'return address' habit."

Postmaster Brown also stated that the postal employees are placed to a great deal of extra work in trying to locate the persons to whom are sent letters with no street address. In the city, especially, is this felt to a great extent. Letters without street addresses or not addressed in care of the general delivery are placed to one side until the end of the day when the employees get out a director and attempt to locate the parties.

FICKSBURG, Ore., Nov. 26.—Silver Lake stockmen and settlers are desirous of securing a cheese factory or creamery and have promised a sufficient number of dairy cattle to supply one if it is established.
